Subject: Library --- copying homework

Hi Alex,

Long time no see. I want to tell you something weird. Yesterday, my classmate, Link, copied another classmate, Wave's homework in a library. First, they took the MTR and went to Kennedy Town Library. They copied the Science homework because it was very difficult and they needed to do an esoteric experiment on their own. When they noticed that I saw them, they ran away to Tiu Keng Leng library and continued copying the homework. This time, they were copying each other's English homework.

Today, I told the teacher what I saw. At break time, the teacher punished them by asking them to copy the school rules for fifty times. They weren't happy about the punishment and they had no choice but to copy.

Finally, they understand that it is wrong to copy homework and they have to bear the consequences.

Tell me what you think.

Chris
