Is there a smell that brings back a good memory? What is the smell, and what do you remember?

Every time I smell the fragrance of peach blossom, I will recall my life in the middle school in mainland China. I studied in mainland China for one year in a middle school before I came to Hong Kong. There in China was the most beautiful time. I will never forget my classmates and teachers during that period. They had been really nice to me.

Inside that school, there were always a few peach trees on the playground. In every P.E. lesson, we could smell the fragrance of the peach blossom! Sometimes the leaves would fell off from the tree and we always picked a few up and kept them as lucky charm for our exams. It was once said that leaves from peach blossom would bring good luck to exams and was a kind of blessing. Those who kept the leaves would get good grades in exams!

Therefore, every time I notice the smell of peach blossom, I will recall those sweet memories of my old school life, my valuable friendship with my friends and interesting things that happened to us in those days.
